

HO #4 Mallory

Teacher	Student
Provides class with a one-page writing assignment and moves around the room checking work.
	Most students are working but Mallory is sitting with her arms folded.
Approaches Mallory and notices that only two lines are written, offers help.
	"No, I'm done"
Repeats that it is a one-page assignment.
	I've said it all, now I'm done – arms folded.
Indicates that there are a variety of responses and that help is available or she can read some additional material on the subject. Restates that it is a one-page assignment.
	I'm bored and done with this. It's really boring.
Ignores "boring" statements, repeats that she can not get a passing grade with two lines and moves on to other students.
	Remains seated with arms folded.
What steps did teacher do well?  What would you do differently or in addition?  What short-term &amp; long-term steps should be taken to resolve this?	